Here in New York, this seething Mecca of the Thespian, the situation is actually tragic. There are just about 5,000 actresses too many for the posttions. The pity of it is the incompetents are in many cases crowding out the capable, experienced players. True, the incompetents sooner or later find their level, but while they are finding it the capables are out of positions and the wolf is putting in his time at their fifth flight hall bedroom doors, the critics are guying, the manager is fuming, and there is a good deal of unpleasant fric-

The Adoration of Woman.

That adoration which a young man gives to a woman whom he feels to be greater and better than himself, is hardly distinguishable from a religious feeling. What deep and worthy love is not so? whether of woman or child, or art or music? ROADS OF THE SOUTH

HIGHWAY IMPROVEMENT IN THE SOUTHERN STATES.

Can Boast of Some of the Best Roads In the World-The Employment of Convicts on the Highways of North Carolina. Among the many interesting and valuable articles published in a recent number of Harper's Weekly was the following on highway improvement in the south: One of the most important, but least conspicuous, movements in the new south is that being made in behalf of good country roads. About fifteen years ago there was a general revival of interest in the building of country roads, and now many communities in the south have systems of roads of which they justly feel proud. Even North Carolina, long known as the Rip Van Winkle of the southern states, has at last awakened and is giving lessons to the outside world in the construction of good roads. It is MACADAMIZED BOAD IN NORTH CAROLINA no exaggeration to say that the roads of Mecklenburg county, N. C., are the best to be found in the entire south.

The county of Mecklenburg is near the South Carolina line, and is pierced by that division of the Southern railroad which extends from Washington to Atlanta. The county seat is Charlotte, a progressive city of thirty thousand inhabitants. Within a radius of one hundred miles of this city there are three hundred cotton factories, comprising more than half of the spindies and looms operated in the south. In 1890 the authorities of the county conceived the idea of utilizing the convicts for the improvement of the public roads. Instead of locking up offenders in the county jail or sending them to the penitentiary it was decided to employ them at home in improving the highways. A law was passed authorizing the use of convicts for this purpose. The convicts were organfzed into a squad or camp, placed under the control of a competent supervisor and engineer, and the work of grading, straightening and macadamizing the roads was begun. A short experience demonstrated that the convict laborers cost the county only 25 cents per day per head, including food, lodging, clothing and overseeing. The outfit for the road work, consisting of a steam roller, crusher, bins, portable engine, road machine and a screen for assorting the rocks, cost about $5,000. At present the county has in operation two road outfits and constructing each mile of macadamized road is from $1,600 to $2,500, not including bridges. In summer the convicts live in tents along the road, and in winter they live in barracks. The rock used for the roads is bought from the farmers, who haul and deposit it at the convict camp. These roads have been in process of construction for twelve years at the rate of about ten miles per year. At present there are more than 100 miles of macadamized roads in the county. The roads radiate in all directions from Necessity For Drainage. In the improvement of earth roads obtain elsewhere, are here at really one very important essential often overlooked is the necessity for drainage to carry off the surplus water before it can soak into the surface, says Good Roads Magazine. Good roads can be constructed even in a prairie country, and by the adoption of improved methods immediate recovery from the effects of heavy rains may be insured. Tile draining is very effective, and with even a shallow dressing Should Last For Ages.

There is no reason in the world why sorrow with all your past joy? If not, then neither is it a weakness to be so wrought upon by the exquisite curves on a woman's cheek and neck and arms, by the liquid depths of her beseehing eyes or the sweet childish pout of her lips. For the beauty of a lovely woman is like music, what can one say more? Beauty has an expression or cording to the dictionary, economy is the prudent management of affairs. Swift defined the virtue as "the parent of good material and kept in proportion of liberty and ease," and Ruskin says or repair. If this is not done, the money spent is more economical, as a rule, to bring good materials a long distance by rail or water than to employ inferior ones procured close at hand.
